

RE-building

The subject of this series is based on the plant hederá, also called ivy. It grows in different places on my property.

Ivy is an evergreen plant that does not require much light. It creeps along the ground, but if it gets help in the form of a tree or a building, it is able to climb even very high.

There are different varieties, but one of them has a leaf with 3 lobes. When I hold the leaf in front of me as if it were a mirror, it points both backwards, forwards and up... at the same time.

A capability that is hard to match, yet exemplary as ambition.
